

Since XM is a pay service I do not think the National Association of Broadcasters has any say in what is aired on a private pay service. I use the weather and traffic service in the cities I visit and view it as just another tool. As a paying customer I feel that through customer feedback from the payees the service should be run not by a group of individuals who have nothing to do with the service they provide. If they want to start dictating what I as a paying customer gets I think they should first start with the cable TV rates and work their way into other ventures.

Thank You,

XM Customer

Robert Rhodes